A TOUCHING SIGHT. To Which Some Horsecar Passengers were Treated. An interesting sight for lovers of the re-freshing was to be seen on a Main-street car last evening. Just as the car stopped oppo site the opera-house to take on an old lady a young couple, evidently either just entering the married state of existence or on their wedding tour, entered the car and took the front seat. He carried her fan, a paper bag of huge dimensions containing grapes bag of huge dimensions containing grapes, and assisted his darling into the car with all the grace of a courtier. It was after the car started that the fun commenced. The lady wanted grapes and the gentleman opened the sack, and, taking out a large bunch, offered them to her. She pressed them back into his hand, and closing the mouth of the bag with one hand, she fed the grapes to herself and her fellow alternately. The way she got away with that fruit was a caution. It looked for all the world like loading an oyster sloop at the height of the season. To say the crowd was amused would be putting it mildly, for every once in a while some more than ordinary expression of true love made things irresistible, and an audible laugh was heard throughout the car except by the two who were the unconscious objects of the mirth. How much farther they would have gone in exhibiting their feelings to the public it is impossible to say, for just as he had gon his arm comfortably around her waist and was giving her a gentle hug, the hoarse but suppressed voice of the driver, who was almost purple in his efforts to be decorous, yelled "Fare!" So unexpectedly behind the happy couple's heads, that with a start they awoke to the consciousness that they were "the observed of all observers." and for the remainder of the and assisted his darling into the car with all sciousness that they were "the observed of all observers," and for the remainder of the ride, by using considerable self-control, managed to keep all the balance of their loving feelings until they were "far from the madding crowd,"

An Ur.fragrant Old Divorce Case Dug Up. A Sad Case Brought to Justice
Austin's Attention.

The cases of The People against P.
Muelen and George Tracey, charged with grand larceny, were to have been tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Austin, but on account of the non-appearance of the prosecuting witness and the absence of the counsel for the defendants, the cases were postponed until today at 3 p.m. After the prisoners had been removed from the court the wife of Muelen asked to speak with Justice Austin, and to him she told a pitiful tale. It seems that her husband came to this city in search of work and was foolish enough to go at once to a saloon. In this saloon he met George Tracey and a drunken man, who is now the complaining witness, and this drunken man claiming he had been robbed of $10, had both arrested on the charge of robbing him. The poor woman postponed until today at 3 p.m. After the was waiting to hear news of the success of her husband in obtaining work, when, to her great surprise and fright, she received a letter dated from the prison. With a woman's usual loyalty she at once went to her relatives, who, like herself reside at Failbrook, San Diego county, and although at first they refused to assist her or have anything to do with her husband now that he had got into such disgrace, they finally made up enough between them to send her to this city, to keep her a week or two and to give her a retaining fee for counsel to defend her husband. Thus heeled, and, accompanied by an extremely large and heavy baby, which she has been lugging around with her from court to hawyer and from lawyer to court, she came to this city about two weeks ago. The object Mrs. Muelen had in speaking to the Justice, as she artlessly stated to a reporter after the interview, was to beg of him to so arrange matters that the trial might come off at once and so end her suspense. "You depend upon it, sir," she went on to say, "that after he gets out of this scrape, if there is ever another drop of liquor brought into our house, or if he ever drinks another glass, he will have to get along without me, for I will then leave him to shift for himself. Here I have come over a hundred miles to help him through this, and it has made me sick. If he ever drinks again after this I have done with him." A LEGAL LOOPHOLE.

The case of The People vs. Phil. Brady, charged with obstructing an officer while in the discharge of his duty, came up in the City Court on Tuesday, but it not being proved that the officer was at the time in the discharge of his duty, the defendant was discharged. This case was rather a singular one, and illustrates to a certain extent the weakness of some of the ordinances of the city. It appears that Brady left his of the city. It appears that Brady left his team hitched in one place on the public street for more than one hour, and as is usual on such occasions, Officer Loomis undertook to remove it to the city pound. At this moment the owner of the team appeared on the scene and the obstruction complained of took place and Brady was arrested. When the case came up for trial the defense read the ordinance relating to the hitching of teams on the street, which is: "It shall be unlawful for the owner of a horse or team to hitch the same on the public streets and allow the same to remain for more than one hour in one position." There is nothing said however in relation to the duty of an officer in the premises, but simply that it was unlawful for any person to so leave a team. Under this statute then, the officer had no business to remove the team; so that in obstructing Officer Loomis while removing the team, he did not obstruct the officer in the discharge of his duty.

The object being a worthy one—assistance to the church should have brought out the church-goers, and the programme offered, together with Mr. should have brought out the church-goers, and the programme offered together with Mr. King's reputation as a planist, should have attracted the music-makers and music-lovers. As it was, however, the attendance was limited to a scant hundred; musical people, with one or two exceptions, being notable by their absence. Considering this, Prof. King might be pardoned for deeming it necessary to inform his audience of the trite musical facts, that "Beethoven's Sonata's were the best-known of his compositions," or that the music of Chopin was "spiritual in character;" remarks that had savored of a "certain condescension in for eigners" above the Northern citrus beit, had they been addressed to the musical native that should have been present. A glance at the following programme will show the solid excellence of its selections:

It is to be cordially hoped that the owner of a voice of so much natural beauty will not neglect the one thing necessary to make it great; the polish and finish gained only by long and hard study with the best teachers.

In the sonata of Beethoven, which was next given, Prof. King's playing has much finish, much ease, fine expression, and, added to these, an unknown quality hardly definable, which makes it an artistic whole. But all through there is felt a want of reserve force that can be put forth at need. The power may be in the fingers and the fault fie in the conception of the piece, but, in either case, it is there, and was strongly shown in the long and difficult presto agitato of the "Moonlight Sogata."

Again in the "Duetto" by Mendelssohn, Prof. King would have a nice little set of bordering on the absurd, and to some in the

It would perhaps be invidious to make comparisons, but one is tempted to say that Miss Breed is the most satisfactory singer in Loa Angeles. Her voice is pure, sweet and well-trained, contains no unpleasant notes, and, best of all, is used with a "full-throated ease" that is the sine qua non of throated ease" that is the sine qua non of all singing.

Prof. King played two of his own compositions, which were light, graceful, and essentially non-original; whereas the song, "The Crown of Sorrow," composed by him for Miss Hance showed striking originality and unusual beauty of a grave and serious kind, aptly-suited to the voice of the singer.

The evening closed with the "Wild Rapture of the Hungarian Dance," by Liszt. Here Prof. King sounded the only really forcible notes of the whole recital, and they came to the ear like a breath of fresh air to a heated room. Prof. King will revisit Los Angeles again another year, and it is to be hoped will receive that intelligent attention which his skill and knowledge deserve.

A Startling Prediction.

Two hundred years ago in China there was just such a craze about natthere was just such a craze about natural gas as we have in this country today, says the Cincinnati Commercial. Gas wells were sunk with as much vim and vigor as the Celestials were capable of, but, owing to a gas explosion that killed several millions of people and tore up and destroyed a large district of country, leaving a large inland sea known on the maps as Lake Foo Chang, the boring of any more gas wells was then and there prohibited by law. It seems, according to the Chinese history, that many large and heavy-pressure gas wells were struck, and in some districts wells were sunk quite near to each other. Gas was lighted as soon as struck, as is done in this country. It is stated that one well with its usual pressure, by induction, or back draught, pulled down into the earth the burning gas of a smaller well, resulting in a dreadful explosion of a large district, destroying the inhabitants thereof. Lake Foo Chang rests on this district. The same catastrophe is imminent in this country unless the laws restrict further developments in boring so many wells. Should a similar explosion occur there will be such an upheaval as will dwarf the most terrible earthquakes ever known. The country along the gas belt from Toledo through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will be ripped up to the depth of 1200 to 1500 feet, and flopped over like a pancake, leaving a chasm through which the waters of Lake Erie ural gas as we have in this country to over like a pancake, leaving a chasm through which the waters of Lake Erie

An Interesting and Valuable Book by Authorities.

D. Appleton & Co., the New York ublishers, announce that early in Octhey will issue a vol-entitled: "Southern California; Its Climatology, History and Resources," being a complete guide-book to Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego counties, with numerous maps and illustrations, by Walter Lindley, M.D., and J. P. Widney, A.M., M.D. It is promised that this work shall be a handsome volume, uniform in size with Appleton's "Mexico." One feature of great interest will be a chapter on Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson and the Mission Indians, which will contain a large number of hitherte unpublished letters from Mrs. Jackson, describing her visits to Los Angeles, San Fernando and Santa Barbara; also one letter from Mrs. Jackson, recounting her only visit to Camulos ranch, the home of "Ramona": also a letter as she was about to begin writing "Ramona," and describing her noble motive in writing this wonderful story. There will also be in this chapter a description of the annual midsummer fiesta of the Del Valle family at Camulos, where 100 guests are entertained with princely hospitality for four days.

There will be an elaborate chapter on the harbors of the Pacific Coast, that will show why the harbors of Southern California will soon become the great channels of commerce for the western half of the American continent.

The work will also contain a particularly valuable chapter on the islands near Southern California, showing that on Catalina and the other islands invalids can obtain all the benefits of a sea voyage, with none of the disadvantages and dangers.

Besides a full description of the towns, mountains, rivers, lakes, plains, orchards, mineral springs and health resorts of these five counties, the work will contain brief chapters by experts on asphaltum, petroleum and natural gas in Southern California; deciduous and citrus fruits; the comparative value of different crops, and a chapter on how to make a home in Southern California in which will be interwoven a description of the flora and fauna of Southern California in which will be interwoven a description of the flora and fauna of Southern California. The literary ability and thoroughness of Drs. Lindley and Widney are well known, and they will not allow a work to be issued with their names on the title page unless they Osculation Legalized.

[New York World.]
One of the most difficult things in the world to establish is the legal status of kissing as between members of the different sexes. The agitation which took place last spring with regard to the prevalent osculation in public parks led to no definite conclusions. But in Chicago a case has come before the courts with reference to kissing in drawing-rooms. The proprietress of a fashionable boarding-house in that city the other day caused the arrest of a young man for disorderly conduct in kissing an acquiescing young woman of much beauty before a window in the evening. The act was perceived, in silhoutte or otherwise, according to the position of the curtain, by an outside observer, who testified on behalf of the prosecution.

The judge decided that the conduct was not disorderly and ordered the acquittal of the prisoner. It is impossible to estimate the extent of the effect ble to estimate the extent of the effect of this decision on Chicago society. In some circles it may work a great revolution, while in others it will make no particular difference. Every young man in the city by the lake has provided himself with a copy of this decree of court for use during social evening calls, in case any question of authority arises.

It is shrewdly intimated that the judge was influenced in his decision by a patriotic desire to give Chicago a more substantial basis for its pretensions as a desirable summer resort. However this may be, the relief it causes in the fashionable Chicago boarding-houses is simply unspeakable.

A Del Monte

It will be a matter of satisfaction to verbody hereabouts to know that Los Angeles county is destined to have a easide hotel to rival the famous Del Monte at Monterey. The new watering place, Redondo Beach—which is located on the coast midway between Santa Monica and San Pedro, at the point formerly known as the Salt Works-is to possess the new attracon. The projectors of this enterprise who are among the most substantial competitive plans from architects, specifying that the structure shall be equal in style to the Del Monte; shall contain from 450 to 500 rooms, and the range of cost is fixed between $100,000 and $150,000. This means business. The gentlemen who have put their shoulders to the wheel have not failed in any enterprise they have thus far undertaken, and there is no reason why they should not carry out their plans in this instance to the ultimate letter. The big hotel will be built-no doubt of that-and it will be built with the expedition which marks the enterprises of Southern California nowadays.

A quite necessary adjunct to a resort of this character is, of course, easy communication. This is provided for in a spur of the Ballona road, which is to debouch from the new town of Inglewood, and extend eight miles to Redondo Beach. As illustrating the promptness with which the Santa Fé people respond to the requirements of the times, it may be stated that they yesterday made an offer that the right of way being provided and the road-bed graded, they will have the spur road in operation in two weeks thereafter. It is hardly necessary to state that their proposition was accepted. The right of way has already been secured and the grading will be commenced today. It known as the "Silver King," if he fails is quite possible that next month will see the new road in operation. That is the way Southern California does business. In these booming times it is a tic cable lines is the next sensation to word and a blow and the blow comes first.

Without a hotel here to rival the Del Monte on the orth and the Coronado on the south Los Angeles watering places would lose prestige with the wealthier classes of pleasure-goers. The Redondo enterprise comes just in time and ought to be very welcome. The fact is that the finer and more extensive the hotel accommodations provided the greater will be the rush of pleasure-seekers and visitors who, in turn, will become investors and permanent residents. Let the foothills be dotted with Raymonds and the coast line with Del Montes, and this county will rank as the greatest health and pleasure resort in the world.

To Mark Glancey's Grave

Mr. John P. Stearns, one of Santa Barbara's most prominent citizens, has erected a costly monument over the grave of Theodore Glancey, a former editor of the Press of that city, who was foully murdered in 1880 for his bold opposition to an unworthy Republican candidate for the District Attorneyship, one Clarence Grey. unprovoked murder sent a thrill of horror through the whole State, and the name of Clarence Grey, the murderer, has ever since, and ever will be loaded with infamy. The martyred editor's grave is at St. Helena, this State, and the costly monument erected above it will not only perpetuate his memory but will serve as a reminder of the principle for which he died.

He died because he was unwilling that his party should be dishonored by the elevation of unworthy men to offic Political purity was more to him than life. His memory is worthy of honor.

A WATCH.

And the Legal Complications It Led to.

F. Allen, Henry Bishop and several parties were drinking together in a Commercial-street saloon Tuesday night, when one of the persons present produced a heavy silver watch, and offered it to Bishop for $8. he would have known better than to offer to sell it for such a small sum. This thought struck Allen's brainbox at the time, and struck Amen's brannox at the time, and he tried to persuade him to take the watch to the pawnbroker's and raise the money on the timepiece, instead of selling it outright at such a low figure. Bishop, fearing the chance of an advantageous bargain was about to be spoiled by Allen's remarks, told Allen what he thought of him, and also cast reflections on his relatives for several generations back. This riled Allen, and, although Bishop was much the larger man, he turned in and whipped him, and was arrested for disturbing the peace. For this was fined in the police court yesterday. The owner of the watch was in court, and was questioned as to where he had bought it. After staggering around in his mind for the name of some conveniently distant town, he finally said he had bought it in San Diego. The watch was handed to Bishop, the reputed present owner, but the officers in court at the time took good mental photographs of the man who sold it to Bishop, as it was suspected by his manner that he had not acquired it legitimately, and it was likely to be called for at any time. tried to persuade him to take the watch to SAN Jose, Aug. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] An affray occurred this morning between Councilman J. D. Roberts and School Trustee A. R. Denike. Roberts who was under the influence of liquor, criticized Denike's official course in harsh and profane words, which were emphatically responded to by Denike. Roberts finally pulled off his coat and rushed at Denike but was worsted in the fisticus encounter which followed. They were separated, and the matter was for a time for-gotten. About 5 this evening as Denike was standing with some friends, Roberts aproached and said: "Are you the — who struck me this morning"" Denike denied the epithet applied, but admitted the striking. Roberts then drew a revolver, but was prevented from using it. The pistol was taken from him, but he procured another and returned. He was then taken to his home by an officer, but came back to town, and was negotiating for a third weapon when he was placed under arrest.

STANFORD REFUSES TO ANSWER. During the late afternoon session a few lecided and somewhat warm words passed between members of the commission and Senator Stanford. A few of the questions propounded by commissioners as to whether money had been used by him to influence legislation, Stanford, under the advice of counsel declined to answer, while to others he replied that so far as his knowledge extends not a dollar had been expended for this purpose. When on a voucher for $50,000, the question was again asked if any portion thereof was used with intent to in-linence legislation. The gelatine, which is prepared from the purest beef tea, thoroughly freed from germ life of any kind, is enclosed in air-tight glass tubes, corked with cotton batting, and the virus is introduced by dipping a slender platinum needle first in the matter exuding from the sore on the arm and then into the gelatine. The committees also called upon Messrs. Stayner and Ives. The situation is said to be much complicated, owing to the close relations that this road has had with the Vandalia line, composed of the Terre Haute and Indianapolis road and its branches, the financial transactions of which were carried on through the banking-house of Ives & Co. Negotiations are now going on for taking up all Ives's loans secured by the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton collaterals, and one creditor, Irving A. Evans, has been paid $250,000, and left at once for Saratoga. Wm. Fellows and Morgan & Co., who carry the $200,000 loan on notes, were asked to compromise on their claim, but refused. Mackay, president of the nercial Cable Company, who left for San Francisco last night, will return here by the end of this month and definite ac-tion, it is believed, will be taken in the matter of arranging new rates for cable messages. Hector De Castro, vice-president of the Commercial Cable Company, said today to a reporter that his company had decided to wait two weeks longer for the other companies to act. If at that time, or, say by the close of the month, the opposition lines fail to restore the rate to 40 cents then the Commercial will drop to 12 cents per word. This may cause the others to reduce to 6 cents, and in such event the cable war will become very disastrous.

"The cable companies are not making any profit," said De Castro, "and most of them have become weary of doing business for fun. Our company is ready to agree upon a 40-cent rate, which is conceded to be a fair thing. Of course if our competitors reduce the present rates further we will go with them. We can stand as long as they can." had decided to wait two weeks longer for

The foreign value of the above imports in the fiscal year of 1887 amount to 442,251,585, but to this foreign cost must be added the cost of freight and insurance, duties and brokers' profits, making a probable addition of 50 per cent. to the above figures, making the total about 203,000,000 as me actual cost to our people of one years' imports of iron and steel. "The outlook for agriculturists in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and the southern portions of Michigan and Wisconsin is gloomy in the extreme. These regions have been for fourteen months subject to the visitation of a drouth, with which a parallel cannot be found in many years. During the past few weeks this state of things has been intensified in the districts mentioned and much injury to growing crops nas resulted. The destruction is not uniform, though. Where crops were planted late in the season the owners will probably not realize the cost of planting. There will be an appaling drouth, and prices of milk, butter, cheese and other farm products may be expected to rise to an unprecedented height. The effects for a year to come will be felt in all quarters. Irrade and business in the agricultural districts, and the railroad as well will feel it. Grain will not be there to ship, neither will fattened stock be there to haul to the central markets. Already farmers are disposing of herds of half-fatted swine, and even horses and cows are being disposed of at 25 per cent, of their ordinary value. A large burden will fall upon the shoulders of the people next year. 'The outlook for agriculturists in Illinois

A Fighter Caught. A man named Stevenson and a Jew were having a lively tussle at the Southern Pacific depot yesterday afternoon, when the special depot officer stepped up and attempted to arrest them. A mounted officer was telephoned for and Officer Botello responded and succeeded in capturing Stevenson at the Southern Hotel. FOR SALE!

Last night the school officers called a public meeting to discuss the question of a location for the new $50,000 schoolhouse. It proved a "circus," the real estate element doing most of the braying, ostensibly in behalf of the dear public, but in fact to further the various "additions" they are severally booming. The city fathers are sweating over the equalization of taxes. The assessment foots $3,580,000. It is a consideration of these figures which lead the joker of the Press office to claim our city to be the third in Southern California, to the disgust of the San Bernardino editors. This valuation leads our county town by nearly a million dollars, but this is due to our greater territorial advantages. Our greater territorial advantages. After these exercises lunch was served.

The Future Harbor of Southern California.

THIS IS THE OCEAN TERMINUS OF THE CALIFORNIA CENTRAL RAILROAD, OF THE ATCHIson, Topeka and Santa Fé system, who are under contract to lay five miles of sidetracks at this point by July 10, 1887—the shortest railroad line between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. PORT BALLONA is situated on Santa Monica Bay, only thirty minutes' ride by rail from the City of Los Angeles, with trains to begin running every three hours in the day early in July. Property can be purchased now at a much lower figure than when railroads and steamships are brought together. PORT BALLONA has two main avenues, one 100 feet and one 80 feet wide, with all other streets 60 feet. Residence lots are 50x150, and business lots 25x100 and 25x150 feet. The residence property is at an elevation of from 50 to 75 feet above tide-water, thus affording a most magnificent view, extending from Point Duma to the San Jacinto Mountains, and from the San Bernardino Mountains to Santa Catalina Island, in the Blue Pacific, and with a Beach unsurpassed on the Coast.

The Beautiful Lake of Ballona

Is one of the greatest features of the place, affording, at all times, a perfectly safe and pleasant place for Sailing and Boating of all kinds, and teeming with Fish and Water Fowl.

There is also a never-failing Spring of Pure Sulphur Water, and both sulphur and salt water bath-houses are already in course of construction.

Water will be delivered in iron pipes in front of each lot under good pressure.

TLots are now on sale, and maps and all other information can be obtained from

ARDAY MANDE THE STATE OF THE STATE OF THE TRUE TAGES.

The problem and the second control of the se its people grow like the famed gourd of Jonah?

If you will take a late railroad map of the United States you will see that Eastern Kansas is almost as much cut up by railroads as Ohio or New York, and by railway connections you will see how Kansas City, Wichita and other towns expect to grow as the supply points of this great territory, which is now so fast being developed. Kansas City, with its fourteen railroads and its $60,000,000 of wholesale trade, is to be the Chicago of Kansas, Texas and New Mexico, and is to have its share with Omaha in Colorado and Nebraska. It already competes with St. Louis for the trade of Missouri, and forms the great distributing point to this section. Wichita, with some railroad facilities at hand and others in prospect, lying on the southern edge of the State, surrounded by some of the richest soil of the Union, is banking largely on the same elements which have made and are making Kansas City. She claims that the will be a great wholesale Pant, and alks of her territory as embedding a large pant of the Southwest. Her growth, however, will depend more upon the richness of her immediate surroundings, and her future as a great distributing point is something uncertain. There is room, however, for a large place here in addition to Kansas City, and the mere look at the map will give you but little idea of the situation.

Off for the West.
"Today," said he, "I graduate,
What shall I do, will you advise?
Shall I stay here to try my fate,
Or seek the West where Fortune lies?

"It rests with you what I shall do; Say but the word and I will stay, But if you bid me go from you, Again my heart must needs obey."

"I think," said she, "were you to go,
You'd find that plan by far the best,"
Then in his ear she whispered low,
"I'm very sure we'll like the West."
—[Harvard Lampoon.

He Must Take Dan.

The President must not fail to take Secretary Lamont with him as he swings around the cicle of the Western cities. Lamont can write him some good speeches. Left to himself, he might go on commending each assemblage of people for having "a city and a locality there." That is a fine sentiment, but it would be possible to over-

William Hammone Hall, the State Engineer, who has had years of experience in land and water in California, after a full examination of the Bancho Rx-Mission of San Fernando, reports to the owners of the property, the Boster Land and Water Company, as follows: "You have 10,000 to 11,000 seres, and perhaps more, of really first-rate valley lands for cultivation, with soils not to be surpassed for fertility and desirability by those of any section; lying very favorably for irrigation, and in a neighborhoot whose climate is well-adapted to the best class of agricultural, horticultural and vineyard productions usual in this country." EFRIGERATORS ON THE OCEAN.

ship a big refrigerator room. How much do they pay to send American slaughtered animals from New York to Glasgow?"

"They pay us a penny a pound right through, or two cents. We charge them for so many cubic feet of room, and we supply the cool feed air, which maintains the meat. We have on this ship about 100 tons now, or 200,000 pounds, the freight on which, at two cents, would be $2200. We have just put into all our ships some special arrangement, invented by a Yankee, which ices a draught of air and keeps it moving around among the meat."

"Do they put any mutton carcasses among the beef?"

"Yes, they undertook to fill the whole space, so as to make the most out of their contract, and when they have hung up their sides of beef they put between the chinks killed mutton. Two hundred thousand pounds of beef would give a meal for one day for every adult in Glasgow or Liverpool. But our Scotch farmers are very much worried to see this meat coming in from abroad. Their business in the past has been to feed hogs, mutton and cattle, and to kill the beef. They can hardly make a living nowadays with patent refrigerators, and still it is far better for the multitude, who can now get meat to eat at some reasonable price, whereas in former times only a portion of the population expected to get good beef, or even good mutton."

"I see that your ship runs light and must be without grain."

"Yes, we won't take the grain for the price now offered. In my own opinion, grain must go up, because at the low rate prevailing in America, the shippers offer so little that the ships, I think, will combine and refuse to take it, except at some rate that will make it remunerative. My dear sir, when we began to carry this slaughtered beef we got 8d a pound for carrying it over, and now we get 1d. That is why the steamships are relying on passengers instead of freight. But it must be said that they have cut each other's throat by running in to get the business, and with an increase of steamships there is a lowering of rates."

"Do you car

drive it right to a farmer's and he will keep the cattle and fatten them up and sell them, avoiding the expense of raising the animal from a calf. But the Americans, who are anxious to send us cattle in the same way, have theirs slaughtered by law or authority at the first shamble. They set up the claim that American beef diseases the cattle, but why Canadian cattle should not do the same passes understanding. We think that the big landholders, who want their lands to hold out well, procure these discriminations and readly cure these discriminations and readly find an excuse for them."

A Winter Chestnut in July.

A Winter Chestnut in July. [Chicago News.]

Not far from Mackinaw, Ill., is a curious piece of ground, nearly an acre in extent, which is so warm that the snow melts as it falls upon it, and though the surrounding country may be buried in deep drifts this particular spot remains bare throughout the winter. The earth there is so dry that it is said to flash like powder when disturbed, and a peculiar gas issues from the ground, which has thus far shattered every vessel in which it is confined.

The newspapers which have revived this chestnut of last winter are respectfully informed that they are behind the times. This "curious piece of ground" became more curious still during the hot weather last week. The ground became so cold at that time that it cracked open in all directions, and now in place of the "peculiar gas" a huge clacier issues forth, populated by polar feers. The ice and snow cover the place to the depth of a mile and a half, damp. It seems to controver the theory that the earth is hot inside; but that is because we have not gone deep enough. The tunnel is now cut all the way through, and the atmosphere is, to a more or less degree, affected by the outside air, but all along as we have been doing the work the men have not known the difference between summer and winter, nor day and night. In some parts of the tunnel so situated as to be affected by the outer air a little, the lights on the men's hats can be seen at a distance of 300 feet, but you could then see only the flames, and they look like fire-flies or will-o'-the-wisps moving mysteriously about back in the dark cavern. In other places the air has been so bad that the lights could not be seen farther than you could toss a stone. A few feet away and they are blanketed by the black soggy atmosphere and hid from sight. Near the drills the air is full of stone dust, and you are soon coated all over with it and become a gray-stone man. When you get the lights or you can see the men at the

MAKING THE SECTIONS MEET.

The Star reporter was informed that when Mr. Coryell, the civil engineer, was brought over from Baltimore by the Government to take charge of the work, there was a great difference of opinion between him and the army engineers who had been conducting the work previously. The headings of the work were made at different points, and the men tunnel toward each other, so as to meet underground. Mr. Coryell declared that by following the survey of the army engineers the sections from the different headings would never meet. The direction of the tunnel had to be determined by a plumb-line dropped down the shaft, a distance of about 120 feet. The distance was so great that the plumb-bob would not settle, but kept moving about in an ellipse. They took the diameters each way of this ellipse, and called the point of their contract the plumb center. They had made their calculations from this point, and Mr. Coryell said they were all wrong. He made his experiments and found that had they continued to work on those lines the sections of the tunnel would have lapped each other, and in one case been forty feet apart. They would have been lost underground, and might have dug until the end of time without coming together. He made a re-survey of the work and had to make quite a sharp bend in one of the sections to bring it back in line, and in the other sections there had to be more or less curve. The way he settled his plumb was by placing a bucket of molasses in the bottom of the shaft so that the point of the "bob" would just touch it and gradually come to a stand. From this point he made his calculations.

A Wise Man.

[Boston Transcript.]

A Boston capitalist, who is a leading merchant as well as a large owner of real estate, is noted for the interest he takes in young men in clerical positions. Once a frightened bank cashier waited upon him to say that, by the mistake of one of the clerks, a check of the merchant's had got into the pidgeon hole marked "protested." As Mr. Millions might have heard a rumor that his check had been protested, the bank cashier hastened to explain, and said he would discharge promptly the young man who made the mistake. "And why discharge him, sir?" mildly asked Mr. Millions. "Because he put your check in the 'protested' box." "It is a good many years." said Mr. Millions, as he tilted back in his office chair, and after his fashion harpooned his blotting pad with his pen, "since I was a young man, but my memory is that I sometimes made mistakes. If I had been discharged for every mistake I made I should not have made my fortune. The young man whose mistake is pointed out to him and forgiven is the most careful man in the office ever afterward. I think my business relations with your bank are likely to be prolonged if the young man is not discharged." And the young man was not discharged.
